NEW YORK-DAY-BY-DAY.
O-O-MEINTYRE.

Special Correspondent of The Washington Herald.

New York, Nov. 16.—Despite the heralded extravagance, it seems that the information that Vernon Castle has gathered together enough money to give his feet a rest. Everything points to his withdrawal from the stage world for the first of the year and his entrance into the theater of war.

He will join his company in England and use his talents in the service of his country. Mrs. Castle is also through with dancing, and while Vernon is shooting the enemy she will spend the winter at their country home near New York.

Salary experts have estimated that within the past three years the Castles have made a couple of millions. They say Vernon has half of the amount set aside for that day it rains.

Bonnie Glass, another dancer, is going to quit the tango life. She is to marry a very prominent Brooklynite, and will leave the winter hours around the parlor lamp. Since skating has become the vogue, dancers believe that there will be no more big fortunes for professional dancers. The professional skater will now come into his own and grab the big pay.

Raffling off ponies as dance prizes is one of the popular indoor sports on Broadway this season. One convivial gentleman tried to take a pony he won up in his apartment via the elevator the other night and the animal grew fractious en route and kicked the elevator runner so hard that he allowed the car to drop three floors before he recovered himself.

The "thousand-dollar" mustache is going to be more popular than ever this winter among the young blades who slick back their hair, wear spats and wrist watches and say "ident" for idle one up.

The toothbrush facial adorning offers a field of endeavor for young men who

WOMEN SPIES STRIPPED.
 Military Documents Found Cleverly Concealed About Their Bodies.

Paris, Nov. 16.—The amazing ruses employed by female spies attempting to cross the Austro-Swiss frontier are revealed in a dispatch from Geneva to-day. The Austrian military authorities have all women travelers to disrobe since it was discovered that military documents had been concealed beneath a pious plaster on the back of one spy.

Another woman, who bore her arm in slings, was found to be carrying a message in a small tube inserted in a wound in her arm. All women travelers are led by female attendants into a bathroom, where they are stripped and scrubbed with hot water. Frequently this reveals small pieces of very thin tissue paper, upon which are written military secrets.

Often thin strips of tissue paper have been found stuck to women's bodies or hidden beneath cosmetics.

Wheat-laden Lake Steamer Burns.
 Calumet, Mich., Nov. 16.—The wheat-laden steamer Alfred P. Wright, of Cleveland, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin in Portage Entry this morning. The captain and crew escaped by jumping.

Show Play Suppressed by Censor.
 Dublin, Nov. 16.—Bernard Shaw's new play, "O'Flaherty, V. C.," a skit on British recruiting, has been suppressed by the censor. It was to have been produced at the Abbey Theater.

GERMAN PAPERS MUST PRINT FOES' WAR NEWS

Feutonic Government Orders Press to Publish Bulletins Issued by Allies.

The German government has ordered that newspapers in Germany are to print in full the bulletins of enemy governments on the progress of operations in the theaters of war, according to an announcement received at the German legation yesterday. The German authorities take the practice of eliminating portions of enemy bulletins unfavorable to Germany is wrong, it is declared.

It is declared that German military reports are scrupulously truthful, and that even false statements in enemy bulletins can do no harm in Germany, because "the facts can never be concealed for any length of time, and lies are always recognized as such in the end."

The text of the German announcement, in part, is as follows:

"The publication of the official reports of our enemies in regard to the war on land is still being treated in different ways by the various German newspapers. Many of them publish the reports in toto; others publish only extracts. Cases have also occurred where news items unfavorable to us are eliminated from the reports at the order of the censors."

"The latter procedure does not correspond with the principle held by the headquarters of the unbridled quotation of the enemies' reports is required at all times, exceptions only to be made in the case of propaganda, for technical reasons or technical difficulties in printing demand consideration."

U. S. OFFICIALS SEEK ZEALANDIA'S PAPERS

State Department Asks Consulate at Progress, Mexico, to Report on Documents.

The State Department yesterday called upon the United States consulate at Progress, Mexico, for a report on the case of the American steamship Zealandia, which was searched by an armed party from a British cruiser while lying off the coast of Mexico.

The instructions direct particularly that a report be made as to the ship's papers. The British Embassy has been advised that when the Zealandia was searched the papers were found on board.

To this the captain and owners of the Zealandia retorted that of course they were not on board when they had been seized with the American consulate at Progress. The consulate, however, has never mentioned the Zealandia's papers having been deposited there.

There is also a conflict of statement between the British and those interested in the vessel. The former assert that the Zealandia was searched by a three-mile limit when searched and that therefore there was no violation of Mexican neutrality or the rights of an American ship.

Girl Writer "Discovers"
Sam Sothern Off Stage

By MILDRED MARSHALL KNOX.

Fresh from an afternoon on the golf links, Sam Sothern walked into the hotel lobby yesterday afternoon with such smiling equanimity that no observer could guess that he was going to perform what is to him a most distasteful duty—to be a party to an interview. And the fact that the interviewer was a constellation of far less magnitude than the one he usually accomplishes such things, outwardly affected Mr. Sothern's cordiality not at all. Perhaps it would be unfair to accuse Mr. Sothern of shyness.

"I'm the babe of a press agent," he announced genially, "because I'm terrified at an interview. I'm not afraid of you, but I'm afraid of the press agent. He comes and poses questions at me which I answer at random until I find that I've said all sorts of things I never meant to say, don't you know, and then I wish I'd never been born."

"Personally, I don't believe the public cares so much for an actor's impressions as you do. I believe they care more for the kind of soap he uses, or the person who makes his boots. I can remember once in London being approached by an interviewer, and I discussed seriously on the drama, and he seemed to grow rapidly more impatient, and finally he burst out: 'That's all right, that's all right, Mr. Sothern, but what about that furniture you sold last week?'"

Has Jolly Little Laugh.

Mr. Sothern ended with the jolly little laugh that odd marks even his most serious speeches and individualizes his charmingly English mode of expression. Slim and straight, with hair a trifle whitened at the temples, and strikingly like his brother, E. H. Sothern, who is a well-known actor, he gives an impression of splendid vitality combined with a nervous energy of magnetic quality, drawing the eye and absorbing the interest quite as completely in an ordinary conversation as in exciting moments on the stage.

One leaves Mr. Sothern with the memory of a pale, brilliant eye, which vivify each passing thought, and there is a little play with the hands, too, which quite misses nervousness or affectation, and merely becomes an evidence of a spirit keenly alive. But one of his most interesting characteristics is his little "do ye see" which ends many of his sentences. BOARD OF TRADE WILL ELECT HEADS MONDAY

Same Officers Probably Will Serve Another Year, Excepting Secretary Gockeler.

Officers of the Washington Board of Trade will be elected next Monday at the first meeting of directors of the organization for their new fiscal year. The new year began yesterday.

It is considered likely the present officers of the board will be re-elected, with the exception of the secretary, C. J. Gockeler. Mr. Gockeler some weeks ago declared his private business prevented his continuing in the secretaryship. The announcement was received with regret, as it was certain he would be unanimously re-elected. The board and nearly all the members of the board are in administration, and advancement along other lines was marked.

E. C. Brandenburg, president of the board, was elected in March to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the then president, William H. Singleton. The board has experienced remarkable success in its continuing in the secretaryship of Mr. Brandenburg, and it is generally felt his work will be recognized by his re-election.

In the term of office of Walter H. Klopfer, treasurer, the board gained a surplus of $1,626 in the past year, that part of which was invested, bringing the board's total holdings to some $100,000. The directors must meet within one week after the annual meeting for the election of officers, as required by the board's by-laws.
